The Railway Age gives the Kansas people some cause to be happy, contending that there will be some lively railrosd building in our state in the near future. In the issue of Oct. 2nd the Age says that the great competing lines west of the Missouri river are threatning each others territory; that the Missouri Pacific is energetically pushing its lines into Central and Senthern Hansas, and that the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Chicago & Northwestern are contemplating a like movement. The Age further says that the coming year will be an active one among the cristing risk and contest of consulting of the numerous independent enterprises which are promising to take the field.
